THE ROTARY CLUB MEETING

Last evening the Rotary Club held its first meeting under the direction of its new President, Dr. E. T. Dickinson, and in his annual address he kept the membership present convulsed with laughter with his quaint humor that seems to spring as spontaneously from the doctor as the flowers that bloom in the spring.

His talk was interspersed with reminiscence as well as more serious outline of what would be expected of the club the coming year. He claimed the distinction of being a rotarian older than rotary itself, and proved it by the statement that as a young man while teaching school he quickly learned that he had to make good and since there were two sides to be pleased, the parents at home and the children at school in order to secure their interest and win their love he decided on a plan to cover both.

He did not believe in all work and no play, nor did he believe in all play and no work. The one made of Jack a dull boy, the other made of him a mere toy. But he believed in work when you work and play when you play.

To get in the work and the play at proper intervals was the thing to be consummated and since the parent in those days never considered that the child had done anything unless there were at least four recitations a day, he found that he could succeed in getting the proper time for work and play by having the and ask them questions. He was the first discoverer of bringing the vision to the children because he found when he started school that the children came into the room and they were looking at the book recess he could not spell it. So at could run.

In more serious vein Dr. Dickinson stated that in the stress of business and the exacting duties of the doctor he had come to the conclusion that he had no close friends in Wilson but since he had joined Rotary he found that he had 35 of them all in a covey and he never liked to shoot single birds.

He then spoke of the minor and major service of individual and organization and of the pleasure and the profit in Rotary because the watchword of the organization is service. There was the service that the individual could render each and every member until the ties were so strongly cemented and the influence of the contagion had so thoroughly permeated that the organization would become a live coal of useful endeavor for the community as a whole.

At the opening of his speech he called attention to the marriage of Rotarian Armbruster and a message of congratulations will be sent.

President Dickinson made an announcement of committees. Their chairmen are as follows:

Entertainment—Mr. Elmer Oettinger. Fellowship—Mr. R. A. Turlington. Public Affairs—W. J. Welsh. Rotarian Correspondence—W. N. Harrell. Delegate to Kansas City—Geo. W. Stanton.

President Dickinson announced the death of Lt. Robert Anderson and said that it was not so much that a man died but how a man died for it was decreed that a man must die. To die for one's country and for all humanity, on the field of battle was a death most glorious. To his grief stricken parents and family the organization sent its sincerest sympathy and most exalted consideration in this hour of their supreme loss.

Mr. Dick Grantham, Chairman of the auditing committee appointed to examine the books of the treasurer found them in the best of shape and neatly kept.

Secretary Geo. Stanton read the minutes of the last meeting and the club adjourned.

FLY CAMPAIGN

The 1918 Fly Campaign has just been started. A number of boys and of Wilson have registered for this campaign and are bringing quantities of flies to the Chamber of Commerce every day. The committee in charge is collecting a number of prizes to be donated to the boys and girls both white and black turning in the greatest number of flies up to August 1st.

It is the plan of the committee to have at least 50 enrollment in this campaign.

Flies are pests and carry diseases and therefore should be eliminated. A Fly Campaign is one of the quickest way in ridding Wilson and make it ideally "The Town To Tie To."

The Chamber of Commerce has already placed more than a hundred traps in the community this season and the work these traps are doing should entice every household to the extent that the Fly Traps should be one of the necessary articles in keeping the premises clean and sanitary.

Traps may be secured at the Chamber of Commerce any day during the hours of 9 and 5. Secure your trap and help the campaign. All boys and girls in Wilson should register, it is your patriotic duty so to do.

SODA COMING IN SHORTLY

Four cars load of Soda Water have been delivered to the farmers this week, and a wire from Wilmington this morning informed us that three more cars are on the road and will probably reach here today. According to official report Wilson County will get only about 4 per cent of the amount applied for. And Mr. Smallbones of Wilmington who has charge of the Government Soda in North Carolina wired today that about 20 per cent of that 45 per cent would come forward as fast as he can get cars to ship.

We know that it is high time that the soda should be used in some of our crops, and a great many of the farmers are getting anxious about the matter and right that they should, but we hope that they understand that the trouble is in the shipping conditions and not at this end of the line. The Government has had a hard time getting ships to bring the Soda from Chile, and after it lands at Wilmington the conditions are not much better for the railroads have all that they can possibly handle and it is almost impossible to get cars for anything other than the war. The facts being true we may only expect some delays all along, but Distributor Crocker is on the job, and he has promised us that he will deliver the goods just as fast as it comes to him.

Every farmer will be satisfied in person just when to use for his soda. So if you do not let your notice when your neighbor's is his, it will be because that you do not do not happen to have the same initial letter in the alphabet. That is, the Soda is being delivered in alphabetical order.

Respectfully,
B. Troy Ferguson,
County Agent.

SUBMARINE CANNOT POTATO GROWING

London, June 7.—John R. Clynes, Parliamentary Secretary of the Minister of Food, told the House of Commons yesterday that no efforts of the German submarines, however severe, could menace the civilian population of Great Britain. He said that 457,000 tons of bacon and ham recently had been imported from America.

Mr. Clynes said 100,000 additional acres of potatoes had been planted in Great Britain while 120,000 acres had been planted in Ireland. The margarine manufacture he added, had increased fourfold since the war began and the country now is independent of margarine imports.

Be sure to see our Millinery Department during the sale. J-6-21D LEE-HENRY CO.
